Overview

Oldest, largest independent bookstore in Western New York, The Book Corner has been a Niagara Falls institution since 1927. Established by Marie Fleming, The Book Corner was first located on First Street in Niagara Falls. The store has moved and ended over the years until now it encompasses three floors and 10,000 square feet on Main Street.

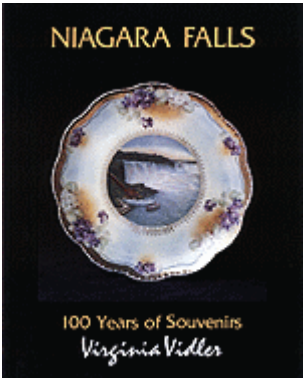

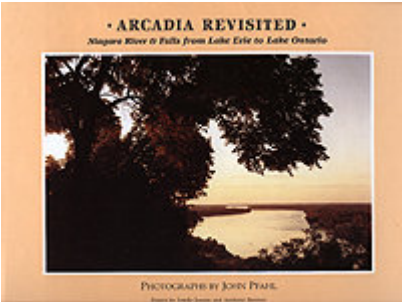

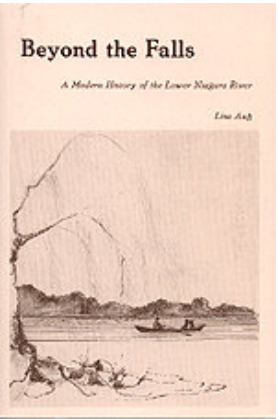

The Book Corner's history has been one of tradition and change, Parke "Pete" Morrow Jr. bought the store from Mrs. Fleming in 1962. He still owns and runs it today along with his son, Jeffrey, who has been in the business for twenty years. In 1970, the construction of a convention center forced the store to move from Third Street to 1909 Main Street. In 1982, after that building was sold, Pete, his family and six friends moved the entire store one block south, to 1801 Main Street, in 36 hours, closing Saturday evening and reopening for business Monday morning. Fifteen years later, Pete and Jeff had the opportunity to buy 1801 and despite the few retail businesses left on Main Street decided that the location was right for them. Since the purchase, the Morrows have taken on an ambitious renovation project, opening up half of the second floor as a community performance venue and massive used book room. A colorful, quirky and comfortable space, the renovation utilized help from Maine to Seattle, with furnishings donated by customers and artwork loaned by local artists.

The Book Corner is open six days a week from 9 am to 5:30 pm and until 7 pm on Thursdays. It is able to stock new and used books on a wide range of subjects, classics in every field as well as the latest bestsellers. The staff research both in print and out-of-print titles, order from all publishers, no matter what size, and ship orders promptly. Often books can be delivered within the same week as ordered. Requests for pricing and availability are always welcome. The collection of literature about and from Niagara Falls and Western New York is especially extensive with some titles that are unavailable elsewhere.

Activity

Students will read one of the following books from the Book Corner's collection of books on the local region.
